

TUITION FEES

A fee of $20 is charged for the lecture series. Cheques should be made payable to the University of Toronto.

FURTHER INFORMATION

For further information on the course please contact:

Bureau of Municipal Research
32 Isabella Street
Toronto 5, Ont.
Telephone: 924-9717

University of Toronto Division of University Extension

THE METROPOLITAN COMMUNITY

A Fall Series of Lectures

Public and private service organizations, labour, management and community associations have become increasingly aware of the effect of urban growth upon the opportunities offered by city life. Such groups have come to recognize that their actions and policies fundamentally affect, and are affected by the economic, social and institutional patterns of urban development. This lecture series is intended to give perspective and a wider understanding of the forces and influences of urban life to the members of Toronto's Metropolitan Community.

OCTOBER-DECEMBER, 1965

BUREAU OF MUNICIPAL RESEARCH

THE COURSE

There will be ten lectures, weekly, from October 7th to December 9th, 1965.

Sessions will commence with the presentation of a paper, of approximately one hour in length, by each lecturer. Following the lecture, there will be a period in which participants will be encouraged to discuss the evening's subject with the speaker.

Discussion throughout the series will be general in nature, though lecturers will relate subjects to examples in the Metropolitan Area. In this way, it is hoped that each participant's general appreciation of urban government and life, and its implications in relation to their vocational or community interests will be increased.

Sessions will commence at 8.00 p.m. and will be held at University College, on Thursdays.

DISCUSSION SUBJECTS

Professor Alex Murray—October 7

Department of History
York University

The Development of the Metropolis—An historical view of the formation and growth of our larger cities and the roles they have played, throughout time, in society.

Professor Michael Hugo-Brunt—October 14

Department of City and Regional Planning
Cornell University

The Physical Form of the Metropolis—Urban land use patterns. Specialization and the process of change. The influence of urban form on the environment and its effect in terms of scale, aesthetics and social values.

Professor Jacob Spelt—October 21

Department of Geography
University of Toronto

The Economic Geography of the Metropolis—As a multiple marketplace of a larger region. The human and natural resources of the metropolis and its hinterland.

Mr. Ron Haggart—October 28

Columnist
Toronto Star

Community Organization in the Metropolis—The ordering of community life through formal and informal systems, public and private bodies, functional and service organizations and a multitude of groups which together, constitute the framework of community action.

Professor R. L. James—November 4

Department of Sociology
Scarborough College

The Social Characteristics of Urban Dwellers—The ecological structure of the metropolitan society as reflected in the varying social characteristics of urban dwellers.

Professor Albert Rose—November 11

School of Social Work
University of Toronto

An Appraisal of Toronto's Metropolitan Government—A summary of the successes and failures of this experiment in metropolitan government and comments on the proposed changes.

Professor Guy Bourassa—November 18

Department of Political and Social Science
University of Montreal

Political Action—The influence of special interest groups, parties and institutions on political decision-making in metropolitan areas.

Professor J. Stefan Dupré—November 25

Department of Political Economy
University of Toronto

Financing Public Action—Sources of local finance at present used, and those most suitable for exploitation, in metropolitan areas.

Mr. Hans Blumenfeld—December 2

Planning Consultant
Toronto

Transportation—Technological developments and their effect on urban life. The need for a comprehensive system in the interests of efficiency in the functionally specialized metropolis.

Speaker to be announced—December 9

The Future of the Metropolis—Its future role and function in a dominantly urban society.

APPLICATION FOR THE METROPOLITAN COMMUNITY SESSION 1965-66

University Extension, University of Toronto,
84 Queen's Park, Toronto 5, Ontario

Please find enclosed my remittance of $20.00 (cheque payable to the University of Toronto)

NAME

ADDRESS

TELEPHONE: BUSINESS

HOME

FIRM NAME (If applicable)

Registration may also be made during the evening

of the first lecture.

